

Marine Heating System Service Technician

Scan Marine Equipment is looking for the right person to round out our team, with a marine service technician position available immediately. Full time, in house position, working with proprietary Wallas heating and cooking systems. All product specific training provided. Position to include systems diagnosis, telephone support, repair and sales. Need a self-starter with good communication and organizational skills, understanding of basic electronics and willingness to work. Starting compensation will be skills dependent, with growth potential.

Email resume to: info@scanmarineusa.com

